

Cybersecurity Services

A good security plan should detect, identify, respond, protect and recover

SOLUTION BRIEF

Service at a Glance

Our cybersecurity services helps establish a multi-layered security practice to protect against the many threat tactics targeting your organization. We specialize in helping mid-market organizations develop and/or run a security program that is appropriately sized, comprehensive and tested while being unique to your business.

Cybersecurity Threats

Businesses large and small are targets despite the belief that their data is too invaluable. How long can your business run without its applications, data or email?

Our Cybersecurity Offerings

Assessment

Understand your security posture with a comprehensive assessment of your IT environment. Meet industry and government requirements.

Consulting

From policies and procedures to architecture and design, our security experts can help.

Training

Your employees are your most vulnerable security threat. Keep them up-to-date on social engineering threats and best practices to avoid them.

vCISO

Do you have the budget for a full-time security executive but could use the guidance? Leverage our experience and expertise to achieve enterprise level security.

Technology

We partner with a range of leading security technology providers and can help you understand which IT security product is best for your business.

Recovery

Recovering from an attack is as important as protecting against one, but it can be complex and expensive. We can help by creating and running actionable, cost effective recovery and archive plans.
